

DRCLAS - Visiting Scholars Program 2025

Descrição

Founded in 1994, Harvard's David Rockefeller Center (<https://drclas.harvard.edu/>) for Latin American Studies (DRCLAS) works to increase knowledge of the cultures, economies, histories, environment, and contemporary affairs of past and present Latin America.

Through the Visiting Scholars Program (<https://drclas.harvard.edu/visiting-scholars>), the DRCLAS selects each year a number of distinguished academics and professionals who wish spend one or two semesters at Harvard working on their own research and writing projects.

Data Limite

September 23, 2024.

Elegibilidade

1. he Visiting Scholars program is open to academics from Latin America and the Caribbean, and Latin Americanists from the United States and other parts of the world conducting research on Latin America and the Caribbean. To be considered, scholars require a Ph.D. and must have an appointment at a university or research institute at the time of the application. Note that this is not a postdoc program. Current Ph.D. students and recent Ph.D. graduates are not appropriate candidates for the Visiting Scholars Program at DRCLAS.
2. The Visiting Fellows program accepts applications from practitioners with a strong scholarly bent who wish to work on a research-oriented project while at Harvard. A Ph.D. is not required to apply as a Fellow.

Valor Financiado

Recipients receive a taxable $35,000 living stipend while at Harvard. The duration of appointments typically spans one or two semesters based on the applicant's preference, yet the stipend remains fixed at $35,000, irrespective of the residency length. Visiting Scholars and Fellows can seek additional funding from their academic institutions, external foundations, or personal resources.

The residential fellowship equally covers up to $4,000 as a taxable stipend to cover relocation expenses to and from the home state/country for both the recipient and any dependents joining them. This allocation encompasses expenses such as meals, luggage, and ground transportation associated with round-trip travelling. Finally, the fellowship includes health coverage for emergencies and urgent care for foreign Visiting Scholars and Fellows, and their immediate dependents.
